Summer Leadership Academy in Inclusive Education

Leading School and Classroom Strategies for Quality Inclusion

JULY 4-7, 2006

The development of inclusive educational practices has been a major feature and a major challenge for Canadian Schools in recent years. Canada has been a leader in this field.

This "Leadership Academy" is designed to provide school and district leaders with an opportunity to explore the knowledge, skills and strategies needed to successfully meet this challenge. Participants will spend four days examining effective practices for inclusion.

Resource people will offer their ideas on specific successful practices and participants will discuss, question and share their own experiences and strategies. A combination of activities will be included with emphasis on participation and building knowledge through sharing and analysis.

Topics:

- School Board Vision and Leadership
- Leading School and Classroom practices
- Fostering Collaboration and Teamwork
- Promoting a Problem-solving Orientation
- Facilitating Change for Improvement
- Creating Successful Partnerships: Parents and teachers as partners

The academy will highlight interests of school and district leaders.

Academy Resource Persons:

- Dean Roger Slee, McGill University, authority on Inclusive Education, Canada, Australia and world-wide.
- Dr. Vianne Timmons, Vice President Academic Support, University of Prince Edward Island; Professor of Education, UPEI.
